I think that you have done a great job in making a good Studies piece out of the ~~xxx~~ I&W study without really getting into the actual proposals.

I have made a few editorial suggestions in the text. Mainly I have suggested cutting out the specific references to the HPSCI on pp 13 and 16-18.

It still tracks without hitting that detail at all.

It also seems to me that we might cut the footnotes (and maybe even the sentence that they add to) on p. 49, lest this raise hackles in DoD.

The little conclusion on p. viii might go best at the top of page 60, and then the little new topics on pp/ 66-67 could go at the very end.

You may also want to give [redacted] a buzz ; he worked on much of the crisis management material, and ^{he} hit the NITC angles.

I am passing the paper on to [redacted]

I think I see the problem on ~~the~~ page 14 (the glitch), but not the one on p. 12.
